THE CHINESE MAIL.

報日字華

(Wah Tai Yat Po)

This paper is now issued every day.

The subscription is fixed at Five Dollars per annum delivered in Hongkong, or Seven Dollars Forty Cents including postage to Coast ports.

It is the first Chinese Newspaper ever issued under purely native direction.

The chief support of the paper is of course derived from the native community, amongst whom also are to be found the Chinese and European business men.

The projectors, basing their estimate upon the most reliable information from the various Ports in China and Japan, from Australia, California, Singapore, Saigon, and other places frequented by the Chinese, consider themselves justified in guaranteeing a large and ever-increasing circulation.

The advantages offered to advertisers are therefore unusually great, and the foreign community generally will find it to their interest to avail themselves of them.

The field open to a paper of this description—conducted by native efforts, but progressive and anti-objective in tone—is almost limitless. It is on the one hand a Chinese paper, and on the other, while on the other it deserves every aid that can be given to it by foreigners, like English journals, it contains Editorials, with Local, Shipping, and Commercial News and Advertisements.

Subscription orders for the above may be sent to

SOME BISMARCK SAYINGS.

For me the world 'By God's grace,' which Christian princes add to their names, are no empty sound. I see in them the power of the prince who yield, the sceptre given them by God according to the will of God. I believe that the aim of the State is the realization of Christian doctrine.—United Press, June 13, 1877.

A decision as to principles is never arrived at by Parliamentary debate, nor by majority.—Second Chamber, March 22, 1879.

Appeals to what they do in England are no misfortune. Give us everything English that we have not got—English law, English literature, English science, English religion, English education, English constitution, and also the whole English system of land-owning, English riches, English common-sense, especially the English House of Commons—in a word, everything which we have not, and then I will say, 'You can rule as you like.'—Second Chamber, March 22, 1879.

A certain amount of positive Christianity is necessary for the ordinary man, if he is not to become dangerous to human society. The belief in the revealed Word of God is the belief in the people that the belief in the sanctifying power of any particular article of the Constitution.—Second Chamber, November 15, 1878.

There is nothing on earth, but hypocrisy and judging.—To his wife, 1879.

In God Almighty's hand we are without counsel and helpless if He will not help us. We can only bow ourselves in humility to His designs.—To his brother-in-law, Count Arnim, March 16, 1871.

We Germans are too well educated, too critical, too suspicious of the past, too much of a practical man, too much of a realist, too much of a compromiser.—Prussian Landtag, January 27, 1873.

Political questions are questions of power, not of right.—Prussian Landtag, January 27, 1873.

The larger I work at politics the less do I believe in human reasoning.—To a correspondent, October 6, 1871.

Is not a vivid Mission in men's hearts, does not seldom seem, without knowing.—To his wife, July 12, 1879.

What the foundations of the State are attacked from the barons and from the Republicans, I consider it my duty to stand in the breach, Christianity and my faith demand this of me.—Prussian Diet, Feb. 10, 1871.

Bravery in special cases is not to be rewarded—it is the common possession of German soldiers.—Reichstag, April 14, 1871.

The tax which the Empire must needs is usually that which is paid to prevent with greatest severity on the poor man.—Reichstag, May 14, 1872.

We are not going to Canossa, neither physically nor spiritually.—Reichstag, May 14, 1872.

So long as the great monarchies of Europe stand together in republic can be dangerous to them.—Despatch to German Ambassador in Paris (Count Arnim), December 20, 1872.

My duties to the State shall not be suspended because of my respect for the dogmas of others.—Reichstag, April 16, 1873.

Our German national change or wishes always to have the best and best thereby that is possible.—Reichstag, March 13, 1877.

The Minister who imposes the taxes should not be at the same time Minister of Finance.—Reichstag, March 13, 1877.

The ability to read is more widely spread in Germany than in France or England; the ability to understand is more widely distributed than here.—Reichstag, October 6, 1878.

Abstract doctrines of science leave no quiet cold; I feel according to the experience I have had.—Reichstag, May 2, 1879.

I have been there for a long time, and I must say I never knew it to fail. It is a science I can commend, and one that everybody should keep.—CHAMBERLAIN'S COLOID, CHOLERA, AND DIARRHOEA REMEDY.

THE DISTURBANCE IN CENTRAL CHINA.

(N.C. Daily News Correspondent.)

CHUNGKING, Aug. 24.

DEATH OF THE TARTAR GOVERNOR.

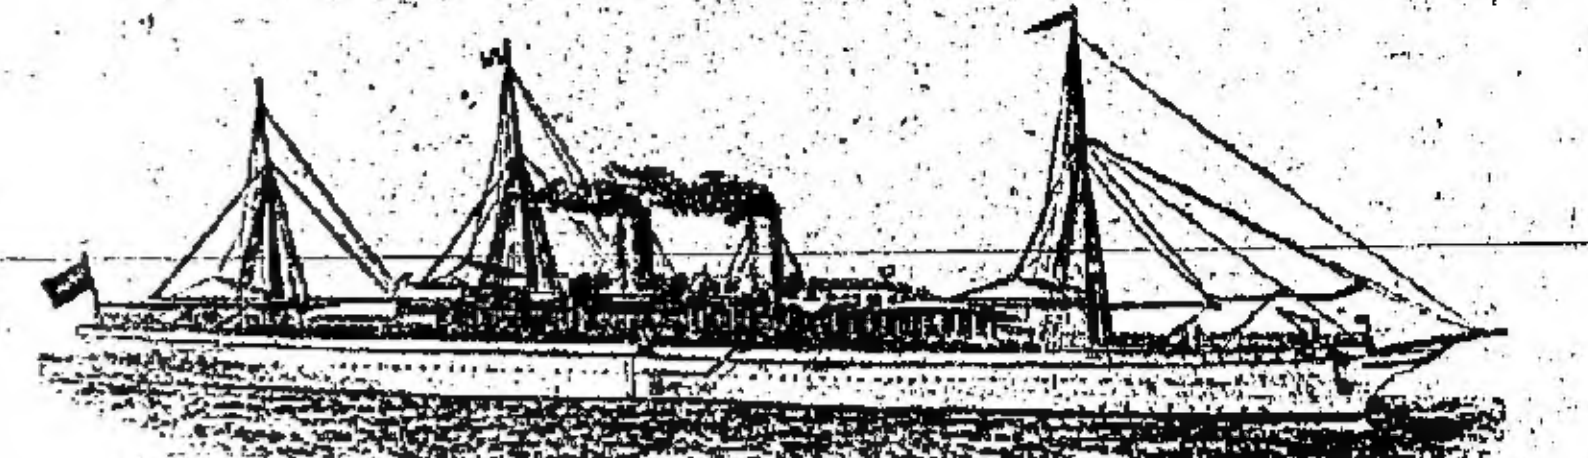

The latest and perhaps the most startling piece of news to hand in this city is the death of Changtu, the Tartar Governor, General which occurred a few days ago. It is hardly stated by those who should know that his death is due to other than natural causes. In any case, his demise coincides with French official pressure. Very properly the French authorities had warned Changtu that the ultimate responsibility for the recent troubles in this neighbourhood would rest upon his shoulders, and the warning, though it was not heeded, was not without effect. H. K. is reported to have been a man of shallow attainments, and quite incompetent to grasp or deal with matters requiring intelligent handling or prompt dispatch. It is alleged that our local French authorities, who win for instructions in connection with the new frontier.

YU MAN-TSE CASE.

Failed on more than one occasion to obtain any reply whatever, although possibly H. K. schemes may in the instance have been due to a need to evil counsel on the part of others as to his own incapacity or unwillingness to 'instruct' in the affair. Your readers will not forget that ex-Tsai Tai has been a resident very much in evidence at the capital in high favour to the conservative classes and well-known literary hostility to foreign interests. Means like Pere Flourey is still in bondage, and the unfortunate man's captivity yet more 'sweetened and bitter.'
